

Home > Nation

Universities roped in to research policing in Nithari backdrop

New Delhi, Jan 31: In the backdrop of the alleged police lapses in the Nithari serial killing case, 11 leading universities of the roped in to conduct a study on ground-level policing and administration.

As part of an MoU signed between the Bureau of Police Research and Development and the universities, a separate study non-registration of FIRs/cases by police" would be carried out in the backdrop of Nithari killings, according to an official relea

The universities will make a presentation on may four here on the study on non-registration of FIRs.

The MoU is an initiative to encourage universities to initiate and undertake research in ground-level policing and police admi

It allows the researchers access to police establishments and police data.

The universities BPR&D signed the MoU which include Sagar University, North Eastern Hill University, University of Raja Dev University, Jawaharlal Nehru University, Punjab University, Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Aligarh Muslim Univer: University, University of Lucknow and West Bengal National University of Juridical Sciences.

Bureau Report

Copyright © Zee News Limited. All rights reserved